MARDI GRAS HUNT BALL

Riding and Hunt Club to Give Bene fit for Purple Cross.

The Riding and Hunt Club of Washington will give a hunt ball at the New Willard Hotel on the evening of Mardi Gras, Tuesday, February 20, for the benefit of the Purple Cross. At 11 o'clock hunting groups of all the ages will pass through the hall, Centaur, Dians, Robin Hood, etc., giv ing to the ball the cachet of a true hunting spirit. There will be general dancing in the large ball room, which will be entirely transformed by appropriate decorations. The small ball room will be converted into a cafe, where supper will be served. Supper also will be served in the dining room

Grand March Before Jury.

Following the hunting groups will be a "grand march" passing the jury on costumes, who will award cups for the best lady's and the best man's costume. Supper will then be served and the dances in the evening will conclude a Mardi Gras ball, which it is hoped will rival in brilliancy all former hunt balls.

To assure the gayety and brilliancy desired, all guests are required to come in fancy costume, pink coats, riding, driving or hunting costume, or carnival dress.

The ball will begin promptly at 10 o'clock and guests are urged to be punctual. Supper will be served in the supper room, beginning at 11:30. The committee in charge includes:

sour stomach.

Instead of mas., harsh plis, salts castor oil or dangerous calomel, why don't you keep Cascarets handy in your home? Cascarets act on the liver and thirty feet of bowels so gently you don't realize you have taken a cathartic, but they act throughout and can be depended upon when a good liver and bowel cleansing is necessary—they move the bile and poison from the bowels without griping and aweeten the stomach. You eat one or two at night like candy and you wake up feeling fine, the head-ache, billousness, bad breath, coated tongue, sour stomach, constipation, or bad cold disappears. Mothera should give cross, sick, feverish or billous children a whole Cascaret any time—they are harmless and safe for the little folks.—Advt.

BENSON SUCCEEDS TO DEWEY'S POST

Chief of Naval Operations Bureau Becomes President of General Board.

Admiral William G. Benson, chief of the Bureau of Naval Operations, today automatically took up his duties as presdent of the general board of the navy, succeeding the late Admiral Dewey. With the death of Admiral Dewey, Adniral Benson becomes the senior ranking officer of the navy. He will hold this honor so long as he is chief of naval operations, when the senior rank will pass to his successor.

The rank of admiral of the fiave expired with Admiral Dewey's death. This was given Admiral Dewey by Congressional act as the highest honor the nation could pay him in recognition of his victory at Manila Bay.

Benson Given Seniority.

There is no grade of admiral in the United States navy, although four officers, hold that rank, Admiral Benson and Admirals Mayo, Winterhalter, and Caperton, commanding officers, respec-tively of the Atlantic, Asiatic, and Pacific fleets. All these officers will go back to their rank in the line, that of rear admiral, when they leave their present stations. The rank of admiral attaches to theih office and not to the officer holding it.

Admiral Benson is given seniority over the four officers temporarily holding the rank of admiral by the Congressional act which created his office of chief of naval operations. This officer, the act says, shall be the senior officer ranking next to the admiral of the navy, a grade now ex-

FROM FALLING OUT

Ever try to count the dead hairs in your comb and brush? They are nature's warning of future baldn proof that the dangerous little dandruff germ is busy on your scalp.

proof that the dangerous inthe dandrungerm is busy on your scalp.

Dr. Sangerbund, the famous Paris specialist, first discovered that dandrungerobe. Then came the discovery of the value of the real Parisian Sage (liquid form) in destroying the dandrungerm and promptly preventing the further loss of hair. The effect of only three days use of Parisian Sage is simply marvelous, and the American people have now swakened to the fact that dandrung is just as unnecessary as it is unhealthy, and that they can be quickly if do fit and save their hair by using a few ounces of Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is sold by O'Donnell's Deug Stores and good druggists everywhere. It's an inexpensive, daintily perfumed liquid, free from stickiness, and will surely cause hair to grow soft, lustrous, and really seem twice as abundant.—Advt.

Why Meat Supply Is Certain Though Other Foods Fail

THEN the late Philip D. Armour developed the traveling refrigerator car, he brought to you America's choicest foods in the prime of perfection. He reduced shrinkage and spoilage, thus lowering distribution costs. But greater than these is the unfailing food supply which Armour's refrigerator cars make certain, regardless of any transportation condition short of a complete blockade of the railroads themselves.

No matter how great the cry for cars, car shortage can never affect Armour. Your daily food supply is assured.

Long ago, Armour and Company foresaw that car shortages would occur—that at times the sustenance of the nation might be imperiled.

And realizing their responsibilities as a great public utility, Armour and Company met the situation in advance by building a line of refrigerator cars, which would be under Armour's ownership and control at all times.

This has meant a tremendous investment.

But, as a result, though seventy per cent of the people live east of the Mississippi, while the bulk of livestock is raised in the central west, Armour is able to assure both a regular supply to consumers and an everready market to producers.

Thus, equipped to deliver foods rapidly, systematically and with absolute certainty, Armour can say to the farmer: "Send us your cattle, hogs and sheep as fast as they are ready for market-we will buy from you at any time.'

In no other way could Armour continue to accept trainload after trainload of stock at a score of plants throughout the country. And without a ready market, producers would become discouraged, fewer cattle would be raised, and you would either eat less meat, or pay infinitely more for it.

As Armour foresaw present conditions and prepared for them, so is Armour today planning to meet other conditions which may arise in the distribution of foods years hence.

And with this in mind, it can be no more than good judgment on your part to direct that Armour meats and Armour products be served at your home table regularly.
